Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR)

Robert Chapman & Company believe in Corporate Social Responsibility because:

- it is something which chimes with our values; and because
- it is something that we practice intuitively – in a normative sense - because it feels right.

CSR is not something that we do in a perfunctory way for marketing reasons.

We do not adopt a formal CSR policy. Rather it is something that occurs naturally based on our strong values around honesty, integrity, equity and doing the right thing whether it is supporting a good social or environmental cause.

Examples of what we do include:

- Providing support to the Duke of Edinburgh Award for young adults developing life skills;
- Cycling on the annual King Sturge Hay-on-Wye to Cardiff charity bike ride to raise money for good causes;
- Running in the London Marathon to raise funds for the St David's Foundation Hospice Care (2009 - £3,150);
- Supporting Shelter Cymru at Christmas;
- Adopting an environmental policy to reduce our carbon footprint;
- Signing up to the May Day Pledge (2009) - http://www.bitc.org.uk/environment/the_princes_mayday_network_on_climate_change/the_mayday_journey_on_climate_change/about_the_journey/index.html
- Signing up to and promoting 1010 (<http://www.1010uk.org/>)
- Being part of the RICS Charity Property Help Scheme, a service through which Chartered Surveyors provide charities with one hour's free pro bono property advice.
- Supporting Lionheart for RICS members and their families (www.lionheart.org.uk)
